N-e-w-s about the National Spelling Bee

Associated Press

» QUIET START: This year's Scripps National Spelling Bee actually began Wednesday morning with an exercise far removed from the glamour of the ESPN and ABC broadcasts that will draw millions of viewers Friday.

The spellers ventured to a room in the basement of the official hotel to take a 50-word test, spelling prerecorded words on a keyboard. Only 25 of the words actually count, but they don't know which ones. The results will be combined with Thursday's onstage rounds to determine who makes the semifinals.

» ANOTHER NEUROSURGEON? It's a well-documented and curious fact that the last two National Spelling Bee champions have been Indian-Americans who want to grow up to be neurosurgeons.

Will it happen again this year? Sure enough, two of the three returning finalists from last year are Indian-Americans, but they have different occupational goals. Neetu Chandak, of Seneca Falls, N.Y., wants to be an architect and interior designer, while Anamika Veeramani, of North Royalton, Ohio, wants to be a cardiovascular surgeon.

» CHANGING TASTES: Pizza is the favorite food among the 273 spellers, hardly a surprise. But No. 2? It's sushi.

The hamburger, long a traditional favorite, doesn't even make the top five. Pasta is third, followed by chocolate and steak.

The bee's survey also lists "Avatar" as the spellers' favorite movie, basketball as their favorite sport, physician as their top career ambition and the Harry Potter series as their favorite fiction books.

Taxi driver goes on shooting spree across rural England

Associated Press

SEASCALE, England A taxi driver went on a shooting spree across a rural area of northwestern England on Wednesday, police said, killing 12 people and wounding 25 others before turning the gun on himself.

The rampage in Cumbria was the deadliest mass shooting since 1996 in Britain, where gun ownership is tightly restricted and handguns are banned.

The deadly spree "has shocked the people of Cumbria and around the country to the core," Deputy Chief Constable Stuart Hyde said.

The body of the suspected gunman, 52-year-old Derrick Bird, was found in woods near the Lake District village of Boot. Hyde said two weapons were recovered from the scene.

The shootings occurred in the town of Whitehaven and nearby Seascale and Egremont, about 350 miles northwest of London. The area is popular with vacationers.

Eight of the wounded were in the hospital, with three of them in critical condition. In a sign of the scale of the tragedy, Queen Elizabeth II issued a message saying she was "deeply shocked" and shared in "the grief and horror of the whole country."

Hyde said there were 30 separate crime scenes. Witnesses described seeing the gunman driving around shooting out the window of his car. His victims included a woman on a bicycle, a farmer in his field and at least two fellow taxi drivers.

Barrie Walker, a doctor in Seascale who certified one of the deaths, told the BBC that victims had been shot in the face, apparently with a shotgun.

Witness Alan Hannah told the White-haven News that he saw a man with a shotgun in a car near a taxi stand in Whitehaven. Photos showed a body, covered in a sheet, lying in a street in the town.

"This kind of thing doesn't happen in our part of the world," local lawmaker Jamie Reed told the BBC. "We have got one of the lowest, if not the lowest, crime rates in the country."

AN UNCOMMON TRAGEDY

Multiple shootings in Britain are rare. In 1987, gun enthusiast Michael Ryan killed 16 people in the English town of Hungerford. In 1996, Thomas Hamilton killed 16 children and a teacher at a kindergarten class in Dunblane, Scotland.

Police said it was too early to say what the killer's motive was or whether the shootings had been random. Some reports said Bird had quarreled with fellow cabdrivers the night before the killings.

Peter Leder, a taxi driver who knew Bird, said he had seen the gunman Tuesday and didn't notice anything that was obviously amiss. But he was struck by Bird's departing words.

"When he left he said, 'See you Peter, but I won't see you again,'" Leder told Channel 4 News.

Signs of the hip-pocalypse

I don't remember exactly when I first heard the term "hipster." It was probably a few years ago at a party in L.A., at which a friend of mine whispered: "WTF? Why are there so many hipsters here?"

I looked around. The room was filled with skinny, attractive people with side-swept bangs, sporting black skinny jeans and black Converse shoes. They all looked kind of dirty—though more sexy than homeless.

I talked to one. He was skinnier than me and prettier too. We talked about indie bands that I had never heard of and why bird poop is white. He kept his sunglasses on and never asked my name. I felt so out of place. I did not own black skinny jeans. Stylists always told me I couldn't pull off side-swept bangs with "my forehead." I liked and still like Coldplay.

It hurt to be rejected from Hipsterville during its pinnacle of pop coolness, but like most outcasts, I simply made fun of hipsters while secretly being jealous that I was never "hip" enough.

But hipsters, I am delighted to say, your reign is ending. Here are some signs:

» The potential fall of American Apparel: A couple of weeks ago, this hipster brand announced that it lost $17.6 million in its first quarter and is in danger of defaulting on its loan. If American Apparel dies, this means goodbye to teens dressed in inappropriate outfits made up of leotards or unitards and neon tights. Without anyone to dress the hipsters, they will be forced to return to the Gap.

» Anyone can be a hipster: If the definition of being a hipster means listening to NPR, liking Beach House, being a vegetarian and riding a beach cruiser nowhere near a beach, my mom is a bona fide hipster. Sure her reasons might be different (she likes the news; she says the music isn't as bad as rap; the doctor said she needs to cut out cholesterol; she's always wanted to learn to ride a bike), but the best thing about being a hipster is that you're unique and better than everyone else. When the masses (e.g., old people) start picking up on trends, you are no longer a special little butterfly.

» Most hipsters used to be emos: This little fact inherently dooms the fate of hipsters. It turns out that the emos who didn't kill themselves became hipsters. My point here is that no one has ever liked emos. In fact, they don't even like themselves, so emo 2.0 won't fare much better.

» Foursquare: Foursquare seems like a Facebook-meets-Yelp-social-networking Frankenstein. It is so expansive and encompassing that everyone has access to what is "in the know." Hipsters usually pride themselves on being privy to certain locales and hot spots. They are the first to deem what and where is cool. But with Foursquare, they can easily end up trailing behind with "checking in."

Inside the Blagojevich trial

The sweeping corruption trial of former Gov. Rod Blagojevich begins Thursday with jury selection. Every player in what promises to be a dramatic, months-long proceeding comes with a unique story. There's the publicity-seeking former governor who has taken his case to anyone who would listen. There's the unflappable judge who presided over one of Chicago's most infamous mob trials, writes fiction and has been in movies. There is the father-son defense team with the plan that flies in the face of convention. All of these characters descend on the Dirksen U.S. Courthouse starting Thursday at 9:30 a.m.

Order in the court

Blagojevich's trial will take place in the Hubert L. Will Memorial Courtroom in Room 2503 of the Dirksen U.S. Courthouse.

HOW THE TRIAL WILL UNFOLD

When: Court will be in session from 9:30 a.m. to 5:15 p.m. Monday to Thursday, though it might sometimes go later.

Watching: No cameras or video is allowed in the court so news coverage will come from outside the courtroom or through sketch artists.

If you go: There are 32 seats open to the public on a first come, first served basis. All visitors to the Dirksen U.S. Courthouse at 219 S. Dearborn St. must pass through metal detectors in the first-floor lobby.

Log on for live coverage of the trial at chicagotribune.com/blago

The defense team

Sam Adam Jr.
A bombastic lawyer who virtually grew up in the halls of the Criminal Courts Building following his namesake dad around, he is known as a smooth talker who skillfully uses self-effacing humor. He led the defense team that won the acquittal of R&B superstar R. Kelly on child pornography charges.

Sam Adam
A fiery senior lawyer who has roamed the halls of Chicago courthouses for decades, he may be best known for his defense of former U.S. Rep. Mel Reynolds, who was convicted in a 1995 trial for sexually abusing a teenage campaign worker.

Sheldon Sorosky
A veteran attorney who has known Blagojevich since he employed him at his law firm in the 1980s, Sorosky appeared with Blagojevich in federal court on the morning after the then-governor's sensational arrest at his home in the predawn hours of Dec. 9, 2008.

Michael Ettinger
Representing Blagojevich's brother, Robert, he is another veteran Chicago criminal-defense lawyer who got his start in the 1970s as a Cook County state's attorney. Among his most notable defense cases was former state Rep. Roger "the Hog" Stanley, who was snared in the probe that led to the conviction of former Gov. George Ryan.

The prosecution team

Reid Schar
The deputy chief of public corruption in the U.S. attorney's office, the steely Schar has earned a reputation for aggressiveness and intelligence. He teamed up with the same two prosecutors in winning the conviction of Blagojevich fundraiser Antoin "Tony" Rezko in 2008.

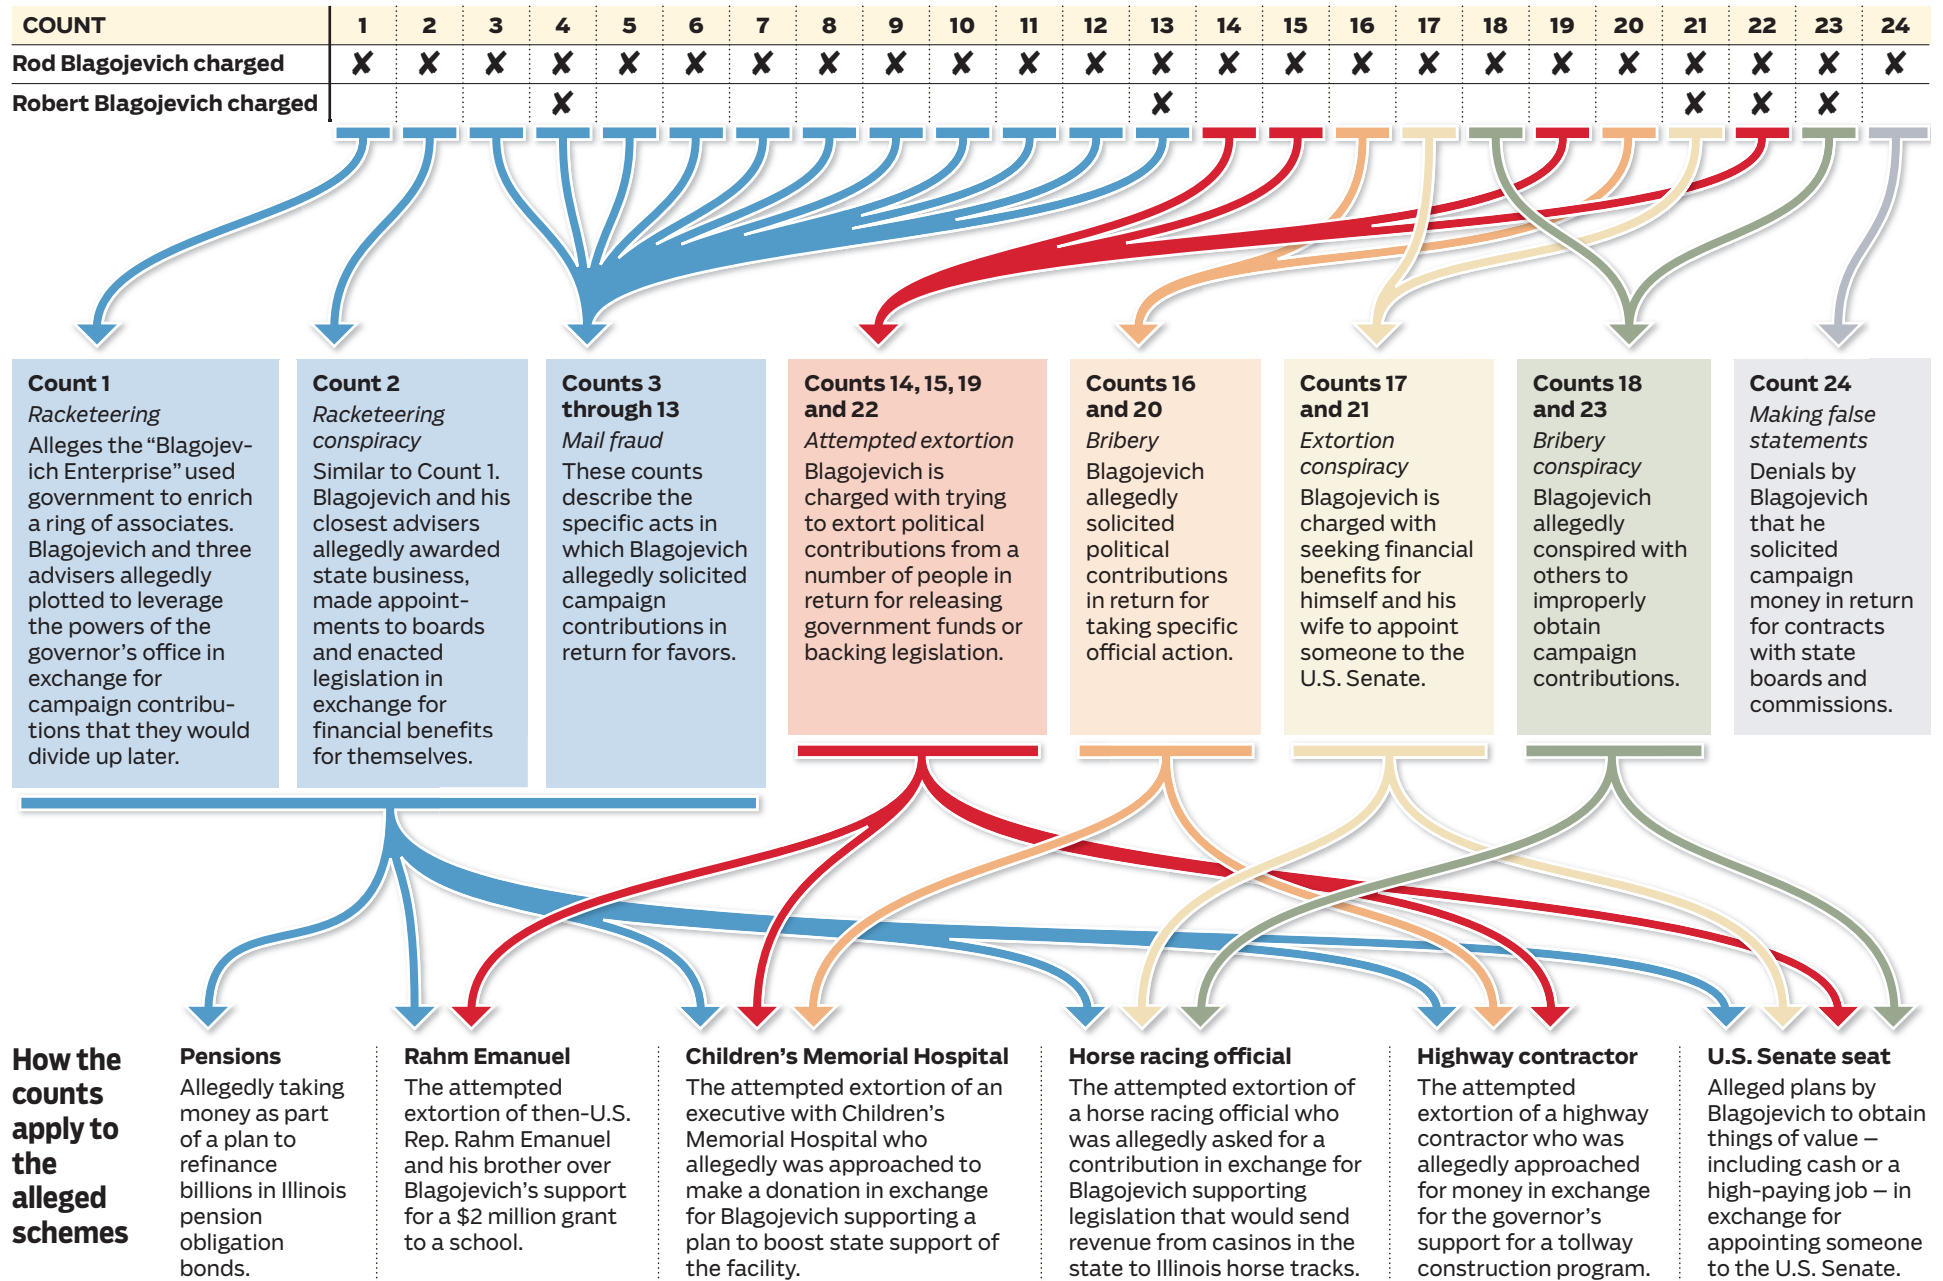

Chris Niewoehner
The deputy chief of the general crimes unit in the U.S. attorney's office, the Harvard-educated lawyer took part in the prosecution of former Chicago Ald. Ed Vrdolyak for his role in a shady real-estate deal.

Carrie Hamilton
An assistant U.S. attorney who once handled child-exploitation cases, she has been involved in a number of high-profile prosecutions, including former death row inmate Aaron Patterson.

The charges

The 24-count indictment charges Blagojevich and his brother, Robert, who ran his campaign fund, with trading favors for campaign contributions. The centerpiece of the trial promises to be charges that the then-governor offered the U.S. Senate seat vacated by President Barack Obama to the highest bidder in the fall of 2008.

City workers returned to a vacant Chatham bungalow Wednesday morning, combing through debris and disposing of two more dead animals that apparently had been abandoned by a tenant.

Police officers were called to the home in the 8200 block of South Rhodes Avenue on Tuesday night and found two dead cats, two dead dogs and four severely malnourished dogs. Police were flagged down by neighbors because of the stench coming from the home.

"It was horrific; it was really terrible," said Pat Edwards, a neighbor. "There was a stench; that's what brought our attention to it. There was an overpowering stench."

Police discovered four live dogs suffering from malnutrition and dehydration inside the vacant house, Chicago police spokesman Ron Gaines said. Animal Care and Control officers were called to the scene to take them to a shelter for treatment.

Edwards said she saw police pull out a Doberman pinscher, a pit bull, a Chihuahua, and what appeared to be a Shih Tzu.

Also found were the remains of two other dogs and two cats, believed to have died of malnutrition and dehydration, Gaines said.

Edwards said she last noticed a woman at the home about a month ago, but other neighbors told police that the renters last occupied the home as long as four months ago. She said the Doberman was found alone inside a garage.

Authorities confirmed the dogs and cats were without food and water.

Neighbors flagged down the passing officers who went into the home with flashlights and found the animals, Edwards said. She said she noticed an electric light in the basement that appeared to be on a timer.

"They were awesome; they pulled over and stayed for hours," Edwards said of the police who responded in the evening.

Edwards said she would notice the dogs looking out of the windows of the home and barking. She said the dogs appeared to be in good health and that the female owner of the dogs would show up from time to time. Other neighbors said they saw swarms of flies around the door.

"You could just tell from the smell that something was going on," Edwards said.

CTA eyes $3 passes for convention visitors

Chicago Tribune

The CTA hopes to sell unlimited-ride passes to all conventioners visiting Chicago, officials said Wednesday.

The CTA board approved a one-year pilot project to test the market for a new fare card. The venture is aimed at putting CTA passes in the hands of convention attendees before they step off planes at O'Hare and Midway. The idea is to provide an incentive to ride the Blue and Orange lines downtown and use mass transit while in the city, said John Paquet, CTA vice president of planning and development.

The price of the Convention Pass, or C-Pass, will start at the discount bulk rate of $3 a person per day. Costs will vary depending on the length of each convention, trade show or conference at McCormick Place and the number of registered participants, officials said.

But there's a catch: Convention organizers who enter into C-Pass agreements will be required to purchase passes for all registered attendees, regardless of whether they plan to use the passes, CTA officials said.

The move could generate millions of dollars for the cash-strapped transit agency. More than 11 million visitors attend conventions and conferences in the city each year, according to city officials.

CTA officials first must sell the idea to convention organizers. Most conventions at McCormick Place already are served by private buses that shuttle between the lakefront convention center and downtown hotels. Convention-goers also tend to rely heavily on taxicabs.

Peterson trial delayed

A Will County judge on Wednesday delayed the trial of former Bolingbrook police Sgt. Drew Peterson, who is charged with murder in his third wife's 2004 death.

Circuit Judge Stephen White issued his ruling after attorneys for Peterson asked him to delay the June 14 start of the trial. Jury selection is scheduled to start July 8.

Peterson's lead attorney, Joel Brodsky, asked that the trial be delayed until Aug. 23 to give the defense team more time to prepare.

Peterson has pleaded not guilty to first-degree murder in the drowning death of his former wife, Kathleen Savio. AP, TRIBUNE

Daley: 'Go swim in the Potomac'

Chicago Tribune

Mayor Daley says federal officials should concentrate on cleaning the Potomac River in Washington, D.C., and dealing with the oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico rather than ordering the cleanup of the Chicago River.

The mayor was responding to an Environmental Protection Agency letter calling on the Chicago River to be made clean enough that it is safe for swimming.

"Go swim in the Potomac," Daley said when asked about the federal position during a City Hall news conference. "We're trying to make this river every day more cleanable.

"Let's figure out what the federal government's going to do for us in regards to cleaning all the tributaries. All the rivers are interstate," he said.

"They just can't make an announcement and walk away and say, 'Well, we did it from Washington, D.C., and that's it,' without even talking to local officials, talking to the governor and everyone else," Daley said.

"They send letters all the time. They should get down to BP and start saving the people down in Louisiana, Mississippi, Florida and Alabama, all their lives and their livelihood, instead of sending us letters," he said.

"The [Chicago] River's been cleaner and cleaner every year," Daley added.

Despite his angry response, Daley long has been an advocate for many of the same river improvements outlined by the EPA. His 2003 Water Agenda declared the river still isn't clean enough and vowed that Chicago would "lead by example and demonstrate new ways of thinking about water."

Blago defense wants Emanuel on witness stand

Chicago Tribune

Lawyers for former Gov. Rod Blagojevich have subpoenaed Rahm Emanuel to testify at Blagojevich's corruption trial, which is scheduled to open Thursday, lawyers associated with the case said Wednesday.

Emanuel, chief of staff to President Obama, had been expected to be subpoenaed by the former governor.

While he was a U.S. representative from Chicago, Emanuel was recorded in conversations with Blagojevich about Obama's vacant Senate seat. Blagojevich is accused of offering the seat to the highest bidder.

Emanuel also was an alleged victim of a Blagojevich extortion attempt over a state grant to a school.

Emanuel joins a collection of other politicians subpoenaed by the defense to possibly testify at the high-profile trial.

By Tracy Swartz | REDEYE

The Southwest Side saw four homicides on Sunday, a RedEye analysis of preliminary police data found.

Three men between the ages of 18 and 27 were shot to death in separate incidents in Brighton Park, New City and West Englewood, according to information from the Cook County Medical Examiner's Office. Meanwhile, a 19-year-old man was stabbed to death Sunday in McKinley Park, police said.

Citywide, gunshot deaths have been recorded in Chatham, Humboldt Park, the Lower West Side, Roseland, South Lawndale and Woodlawn in the last week, RedEye determined. Also, a 51-year-old woman was beaten to death in South Shore, officials said.

May ended Monday with 47 homicides, the same number police recorded in May 2009, RedEye determined. So far police have logged two homicides in June, RedEye found. There were 46 homicides in June 2009, based on a RedEye analysis.

Shortest trip to Mars? Via 6 researchers' simulation

1 MOSCOW A manned mission to Mars may be decades away, but an international team of researchers will try to experience what one might be like by locking themselves up in a windowless capsule for a year and a half—the time needed for a round trip to the red planet.

The all-male crew of three Russians, a Frenchman, an Italian-Colombian and a Chinese won't endure weightlessness, but from Thursday they will live for 520 days in the spartan conditions of a mock spaceship and follow a harsh regimen of experiments and exercise.

The main task of the Mars-500 experiment is to study the effects of long isolation to help a real space crew of the future cope better with stress and fatigue.

"When everybody interacts with the same people in the same space, habits and behavior become apparent very quickly. These habits may irritate and cause indignation—and even fits of aggression," said Mikhail Baryshev, a psychotherapist who is connected to the program.

Crude nears Florida

2 PENSACOLA, Fla. The BP oil slick drifted perilously close to the Florida Panhandle's famous sugar-white beaches Wednesday as a risky gambit to contain the leak by shearing off the well pipe ran into trouble a mile under the sea when the diamond-tipped saw became stuck.

The saw had sliced through about half of the pipe when it snagged, and it took BP 12 hours to free it. The company said preparations were being made to resume cutting, but didn't give a timetable on starting.

The plan is to fit a cap on the blown-out well at the bottom of the Gulf of Mexico to capture most of the spewing oil; the twisted, broken pipe must be sliced first to allow a snug fit.

"I don't think the issue is whether or not we can make the second cut. It's about how fine we can make it, how smooth we can make it," said Coast Guard Adm. Thad Allen, the government's point man for the crisis.

As the edge of the slick drifted within seven miles of Pensacola's beaches, emergency workers rushed to link the last in a miles-long chain of booms designed to fend off the oil.

Forecasters said the oil probably would wash up by Friday, threatening a delicate network of islands, bays and white-sand beaches that are a haven for wildlife and a major tourist destination.

cannot change what has happened," said John Dosh, emergency director for Escambia County, which includes Pensacola.

Allen said more staff, boats and helicop-

FIGHT NIGHT

BLACKHAWKS ON RECEIVING END OF FLYERS ATTACK, FALL 4-3

Philadelphia and fighting seem to go hand in hand. The Flyers are nicknamed the Broad Street Bullies, the city's sports fans are known to throw snowballs and batteries and—of course—the city is the setting for the "Rocky" series of movies. In fact, the movie is so synonymous with the city that the Philadelphia Museum of Art's steps are known as the "Rocky" steps because of the famous scene that was shot there. That fighting spirit was alive and well on the ice Wednesday, as the Flyers tried to keep from going down 3-0 in the series and the Blackhawks tried to put the Flyers in a stranglehold. Here's the round-by-round recap.

For much of the first period, the Blackhawks and Flyers dance around, sizing one another up as fighters do in the ring. Pucks are thrown, shots are fired, but nothing lands. That is until Flyers center Danny Briere (above) scores on a power play off a beautiful backward pass by winger Scott Hartnell. Hawks goalie Antti Niemi absorbs the first shot but is out of position to stop the second.

Score: Philadelphia 1, Blackhawks 0

Duncan Keith (center), he of the gap-toothed grin from a meeting with a flying puck in the Western Conference finals, does some damage of his own in the second period. He launches the puck toward the net off a Patrick Kane pass, and Flyers center Jeff Carter deflects it just enough to confuse goalie Michael Leighton. Punch drunk, in a way.

Score: Philadelphia 1, Blackhawks 1

» It's Hartnell again proving able to land a big hit. With 9:55 gone in the second, Flyers villain Chris Pronger sends the puck flying toward Niemi from near the blue line. Niemi squares up to make a glove save, but Hartnell redirects it down to the ice and through the five-hole of Niemi. The Hawks are wobbling again.

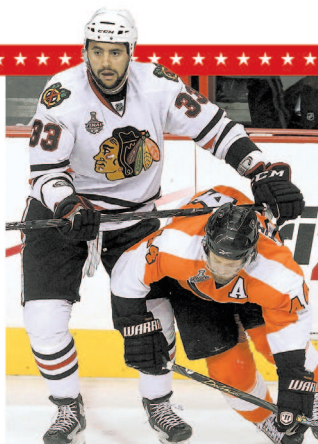

Score: Philadelphia 2, Blackhawks 1

» Defenseman Brent Sopel gets into the fighting spirit with a shot off a faceoff that goes through a sea of legs, right by Leighton and finds the net. In boxing terms, he would have landed that punch thanks to a long reach—from near the blue line, to be exact.

Score: Philadelphia 2, Blackhawks 2

FIGHT CARD

Game 3 was expected to feature a lot of big hits. And it didn't disappoint. Here are some of the key confrontations and—"Rocky"-style—the winners.

Dustin Byfuglien vs. Kimmo Timonen

Big Buff and Kimmo get into a shoving match as the seconds wind down in the first period. Byfuglien lands the biggest hits, although this is not a glove-dropper in the traditional sense. The two did lose their helmets, though, and Patrick Kane skates by and appears to try to land a shot. It pays off for the Flyers, who get a power play.

Winner: Byfuglien. He lands the real shots.

Scott Hartnell vs. Kris Versteeg

Hartnell (top) lands a clear punch to the back of Versteeg's head, Versteeg's helmet flies off and Versteeg (bottom) hits the ice. Refs don't call anything.

Winner: Hartnell. Cheap but effective.

OVERTIME

Flyers land the knockout blow, a redirect from winger Claude Giroux (above) that just trickles under Niemi and sends the Flyers—and their fans—into hysterics. It was a heavyweight fight for the ages.

Final: Philadelphia 4, Blackhawks 3
Blackhawks lead series 2-1.

ROUND 3

Kane gets in the first jab in the third, beating Leighton high on a beautiful breakaway goal. It's the type of move that landed Kane the cover of "NHL10."

Score: Blackhawks 3, Philadelphia 2

The Flyers might have been knocked around, but they pick themselves up off the mat and return the favor 20 seconds after Kane's goal with a one-two punch. Winger Ville Leino hits the open net on a rebound after Niemi stretches to block a shot on the other side of the goal. Too many shots, not enough Niemis.

Score: Blackhawks 3, Philadelphia 3.

CUP CHECK

2 wins till the Hawks clinch the title.

GAME 4:
Blackhawks at Philadelphia
7 p.m. Friday, Vs., WGN-AM 720

From Philly, with shove

Philadelphia has a reputation for having some of the most imposing sports fans, to put it nicely. And I was able to find out how true that was.

I arrived in Philadelphia on Wednesday wearing my Duncan Keith jersey and hit the typical tourist spots.

First up, Independence Hall, which, like the game, was sold out. But I got into the Old Senate and House Chambers where I met two Hawks fans dressed incognito. As we left, a park ranger stopped me and reminded me Philadelphia was the murder capital of America.

The three of us went to the Liberty Bell and saw another Hawks fan. This wasn't going to be so bad.

That quickly changed.

I walked to Ben Franklin's grave, where a group of kids who looked like fifth-graders surrounded me, many in Flyers gear. A kid in a Daniel Briere jersey started booing and asked, "What are you doing in Philly? Get out of here!" Their teacher, without missing a beat, told them, "This is your first lesson in free speech, kids." I can't figure out if Franklin would be thrilled or appalled at this exchange.

Walking downtown everyone had some sort of warning for me. I passed the ironic "Love" sign and headed to the "Rocky" steps, where I was told to perform a certain sexual act on Keith.

Then, miraculously, I found the Hawks hotel. Inside I saw the Hawks hanging out in their suits. Their beards were a giveaway. Joel Quenneville had his game face/mustache on. Patrick Kane even had a bit of stubble.

Outside the Wachovia Center was a sea of orange. Seeing a Hawks fan brought sighs of relief from both of us. The comments came from everywhere now. I was a marked man.

I waited at the box office for tickets. I was willing to spend up to $200. In one of the toughest decisions of my life, I passed on a $310 seat in the uppers.

As I left, Flyers fans became very hostile. "You are lucky the cops are around," one said. Another grabbed my arm. If this is what it was going to be like on the inside, maybe it wasn't so bad I passed.

With threats coming at me from every Flyers fan, I ducked out of sight and took my jersey off. I survived my day as the enemy.

1 What, if anything, might the Blackhawks like about the city of Philadelphia?	It's a great place to raise your criminals.	Shorter flight than San Jose means no onboard screening of "Valentine's Day."	Close proximity to frat parties. Just ask the Flyers for directions.	The "tastykakes" at Wawa.	Winning the next two games and skating off with the Stanley Cup.
2 What's unique about a hockey game in Philadelphia?	The red line is made from vials of Dave Schultz's blood.	The thrill of the Fresh Prince of Bel-Air's hometown. He got in one little fight, and his mom got scared.	Batteries travel faster on ice than on grass. Makes their "rally battery" giveaways dangerously exciting.	Even the fans do the "brotherly shove."	More blood and bruises than normal and the D batteries flying at the Hawks bench.
3 How, besides winning, could the Hawks extract their revenge on Dan Carcillo?	They could make him a DVD—"Best hits of the Finals"—and only include his own hit on Jeff Carter.	Spreading a rumor that he wears Superman underwear. That'll show him.	Step out of the way and watch as he takes out his teammates. Itching powder in the jock works too.	Add a "One Goal" tattoo to his forehead.	Tell him the 1970s want their mustache back.
4 What goes through Chris Pronger's mind on the ice?	Fire bad! Aaaaaarrrrggghhhhh!	"When I was drafted, the Internet barely existed. Time to retire and take up needlepoint."	Aadurrdurrdurrdurr.	"This puck would look great in my personal collection ... if Toews signs it for me."	Nothing. He is like a machine out there.
5 How could the Blackhawks help the Cubs and Sox?	Who are the Cubs and Sox?	If they can drive in runs, they're more than welcome to put on cleats and take over.	Hold daily Stanley Cup parades to draw attention away from the diamond until football starts.	Let them drink from the Cup. Let's do it!	Hawks only have time for one team. Cubs are beyond help.

Can Chiropractic Help Me? HOW MUCH WILL IT COST?

We are often asked, "What's the best way of finding out whether or not a doctor of chiropractic can help my problem?" We believe the answer can be found in a complete chiropractic consultation and examination, including x-rays. And to help find out for sure, we will do a complete consultation and examination, including x-rays, if necessary, (procedures that normally cost $250 or more) for only $25.

We will make this special program available through June. The only exception to the offer involves personal injury cases (workers' compensation and auto accidents) in which there is no charge directly to the patient.

$25.00 Reg. $250 Program Must present ad at time of appointment.

YOUR INITIAL VISIT WILL INCLUDE:

- A private consultation with the doctor.
- X-rays, if necessary.
- A thorough spinal examination including orthopedic & neurological test.
- A confidential report of our findings.
- An explanation of our treatment procedure if we determine chiropractic can help you.
- A REFERRAL TO THE PROPER SPECIALIST IF WE DETERMINE CHIROPRACTIC CAN'T HELP YOU.

THESE CONDITIONS ARE SOME OF THE DANGER SIGNALS:

- Headache
- Arthritic pain by stiff neck
- Loss of sleep
- Scoliosis (Curvature of the spine)
- Leg pain & numbness
- Arm pain & numbness
- Backache
- Fatigue
- Tension
- Whiplash injury

If you are experiencing any of these symptoms, call our office today for an appointment.

No Twitter, no problem

As long as the Blackhawks win, Patrick Kane is happy

Chicago Tribune

As he leaned back in his locker stall early Wednesday, Patrick Kane was profoundly befuddled. This was the Stanley Cup finals, with a chance to put a stranglehold on the series just hours away, and the young Blackhawks sniper was completely without answers.

The vital issue at hand? Someone wondering why he didn't have a Twitter account.

"I didn't think I was that famous," Kane said, more amused than annoyed. "Maybe after the season. For you."

So, no, a scoreless Cup finals did not have Kane's mind twisted beyond recognition. He is not a mulleted black cloud hovering through the dressing room. To put it in 140 characters or fewer: He's doing OK.

"The team is winning," Kane said. "You obviously want to contribute at this level of hockey. But if we keep winning and we end up winning the series and I don't score, I'd rather have that than scoring and we end up losing."

"You always want to contribute, especially an offensive guy. That's what I was brought in here to do, is score goals and help make plays. That's my job and I'm going to keep trying to do that."

He did his job in the third period, giving the Blackhawks a 3-2 lead on a breakaway goal. It was short-lived, however, as the Flyers tied it 20 seconds later.

Tiger: I'm good to go

Tiger Woods' neck is healthy enough for him to play this week and to be serious about the U.S. Open in two weeks. Although he arrived at the Memorial Tournament without a coach and without a word about his marriage, he did suggest that his head is improving as well.

"I think that life is moving forward," he said during a news conference at the Memorial, which begins Thursday in Dublin, Ohio. "The last six months have been pretty tough, and I'm now starting to get into golf and starting to play golf again and get into my routine of playing, which is something I haven't done in a long time. So hopefully I can get back into that and play the rest of the summer and into the fall."

The Memorial will be his first tournament since his swing coach Hank Haney left him and the first since Woods pulled out during the final round of the Players Championship last month with a neck injury. He said he was relieved when he learned that his condition was only inflammation, not a bulging disc.

"I had a hard time turning back, I had a hard time turning through. And the headaches were just unreal at times," he said, adding that he played 54 holes one day recently without a problem.

His news conference was almost entirely about golf, so there was no discussion about his wife, Elin, or the scandal that began in November. He acknowledged that Haney said he stepped down in part because of all the turmoil.

"I understand it. I mean, there's a lot going on, as we all have seen," Woods said. "I totally understand it." When he was asked what he intended to do about a replacement for Haney, he said, "No plans."

WOODS' WINNINGS

DUBLIN, Ohio Tiger Woods won $36,000 on Wednesday in a charity skins at Muirfield Village Golf Club, while Zach Johnson earned $14,000 with three Skins in Woods' group. Half of each player's winnings go to charity.

The 14-time major winner showed little rust in his game after the recent layoff, said Jim Furyk, who played in Woods' group.

"I'm not a mind-reader or looking into a crystal ball, but it's just a matter of time before he starts playing well," Furyk said. "He's the best player that we've seen since Jack Nicklaus ... so it's just a matter of time."

Cocktail clues

Decoding mysterious spirits on a drink menu near you

By Lisa Arnett

If reading cocktail lists around town suddenly seems like a vocabulary quiz you forgot to study for, you're on to something. As part of Chicago's growing craft cocktail movement, bartenders are getting creative with lesser-known spirits. To make sure you're not caught clueless while out for your next drink, read up on a few of these head-scratching spirits. As it turns out, chartreuse isn't just a Crayola color, mezcal isn't the same as tequila, and there's a lot more to herbal liqueurs than good ol' Jagermeister.

LISA ARNETT IS THE METROMIX NIGHTLIFE PRODUCER. LMARNETT@TRIBUNE.COM

Bar De Ville's Brad Bolt mixes up the Hudson Street
DAN PETERSON PHOTOS FOR METROMIX

CHARTREUSE

This fluorescent liqueur is made in green and yellow versions by a clan of dutiful French monks according to a guarded recipe of a reported 130 plants and flowers. Yellow chartreuse is sweeter and lighter and gets its color from saffron. The green variety has a sharper taste and unlike, say, green apple Pucker, its green hue is 100 percent au naturel.

APEROL

This bright-orange liqueur is similar to the more well-known Italian liqueur Campari, but it goes down much easier thanks to its sweeter taste, citrusy finish and low alcohol content.

Drink it at: Old Town Social (455 W. North Ave. 312-266-2277) in the Americano ($11). This classic recipe technically calls for Campari along with vermouth and soda water, but the bartenders here switch in aperol for easy drinking.

MEZCAL

This spirit is made from agave, but it's not the same as tequila, folks. By Mexican law, tequila can only be made from blue agave, while mezcal is made from other species of agave. The process of roasting agave hearts (called piñas) before fermentation results in mezcal's telltale smoky quality.

Drink it at: Sable Kitchen & Bar (505 N. State St. 312-755-9704) in Speaking in Tongues ($13). The big player in this muddled strawberry cocktail is Del Maguey Chichicapa, a mezcal made in the Mexican village of Chichicapa.

NIGHTLIFE NEWS TICKER

- » Epic Sky, the week-old rooftop lounge at River North's Epic (112 W. Hubbard St.), is now open, serving drinks only. Food service will debut in a few weeks.
- » Logan Square's forthcoming Nice Slice Pizza Bar actually will be called the Boiler Room (2210 N. California Ave.) when it opens later this summer.
- » Moonshine has changed its name to Moonshine Brewing Company (1824 W. Division St.).
- » Longman & Eagle (2657 N. Kedzie Ave.) debuted lunch service and sidewalk seating. A backyard beer garden also is in the works for later this summer.
- » Gilt Bar (230 W. Kinzie St.) ups its cocktailing capacity with a dark and intimate basement lounge, due to open in two weeks, serving a new menu of 30-plus drinks.

ZWACK

This amber-hued herbal liqueur from Hungary dates to the 1790s and has been available in the U.S. for only a few years. Though the product is technically called Unicum, the company name of Zwack is what's usually used on menus.

Drink it at: Benny's Chop House (444 N. Wabash Ave. 312-626-2444) in the house spin on a traditional dark and stormy, cleverly named Turbid & Clement ($10). Zwack provides a bitter foil to sweet molasses when combined with Cruzan rum, blood orange puree and ginger beer.

FERNET

This bitter, almost medicinal-tasting spirit is made from a proprietary blend of herbs and aged in oak casks prior to bottling. Fernet-Branca, a brand of fernet made at the Fertelli Branca Distillery in Italy, is the most common locally. Drink it at: Longman & Eagle (2657 N. Kedzie Ave. 773-276-7110) in the Carpathian ($8). This simple drink combines Fernet-Branca with aperol (see above) and Boylan's birch beer, a soda that's similar to root beer.

Fest flash

Mayfest Chicago

When: 5 p.m. Thursday-Friday; noon Saturday-Sunday

Where: Lincoln and Leland avenues

Entry: Free

Get there: No. 49 Western bus; Western Brown Line "L" stop

The basics: In January—when fest season was barely a speck on the horizon—Metromix readers voted Mayfest their favorite fest from our top five picks. We love it too, from the free entry and the plastic customized steins to the heaping plates of German food and general good cheer. Last year, the fest saw its biggest crowds yet, so don't be surprised if you end up wearing some booze and kraut by the end of the night. 5-9:30 p.m. Thursday; 5-11 p.m. Friday; noon-11 p.m. Saturday; noon-10 p.m. Sunday.

Don't miss: Friday features the Polkaholics (5-10 p.m.) and a keg tapping (8 p.m.) to officiate the opening.

MORE FESTIVALS

Chicago Gospel Music Festival

FREE Get a spiritual lift while you lounge at the annual event. Highlights: Byron Cage and Hezekiah Walker (Saturday) and Fred Hammond (Sunday). 11 a.m.-9 p.m. Saturday-Sunday. Millennium Park, 201 E. Randolph St. 312-744-3315.

Eastside Millennium Art Festival

FREE Take stock of works by 150 artists just steps from Millennium Park at this juried event. Noon-5 p.m. Friday; 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday-Sunday. Michigan Avenue and Lake Street. 847-926-4300.

57th Street Art Fair

FREE Browse art in Hyde Park at the 63rd annual juried fair, which also features food vendors. 11 a.m.-6 p.m. Saturday; 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Sunday. 57th Street and Kenwood Avenue. 773-493-3247.

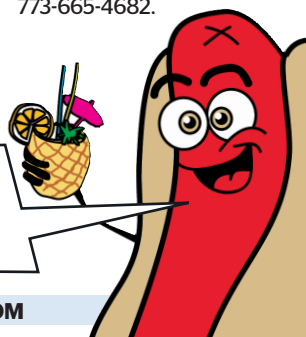

Do-Division Street Fest and Sidewalk Sale

Soak up live music, DJs, food-and-beer vendors and shopping ops galore along a 10-block stretch of Division Street. Music highlights: Hood Internet, the Good Life and the Night Marchers (Saturday), and Ponys, YACHT and Jason Isbell and the 400 Unit (Sunday). Noon-10 p.m. Saturday-Sunday. $5 suggested donation. Division Street between Ashland Avenue and Leavitt Street. 312-850-9390.

June Jam

Cover bands Too White Crew and Sixteen Candles lend a festival vibe to this end-of-school-year bash, held partly on the grounds of Audubon School. Includes food and beer vendors. Noon-10 p.m. Saturday; noon-9 p.m. Sunday. $5 suggested donation. Hoyne and Cornelia avenues. 773-665-4682.

Don't forget Festy, our frankly fabulous festival companion! Print him out at metromix.com, then pose with him at fests and send pics to us at metromixchi@gmail.com.

Light Pollution embraces Chicago bleakness and cold, abandoned spaces

By Matt Pais

Something you don't hear every day: Referring to singer-guitarist Jim Cicero's creation of Light Pollution's full-length debut "Apparitions," the band's bio notes, "Cicero wrote the album over the course of a long, stoned, agoraphobic winter spent isolated in a heatless warehouse west of Chicago."

So it's not surprising that Cicero, a Berwyn native who grew up in LaGrange and now lives in Pilsen, credits the album's spacey mood and anthemic, psychedelic sound to the 30,000-square-foot DeKalb spot he lived and worked in for a year. The setting was productive but, um, had its drawbacks.

"It was affecting my personal mental health to be isolated that long," Cicero, 24, said while the band drove from Cleveland to Hoboken, N.J. "And go five days without talking to anybody. Without using the Internet. 'Oh, so and so died a week ago. Really? I had no idea. I've been living under a rock.'"

He's isolated no more. The excellently hazy "Apparitions" drops Tuesday, by which time Cicero is glad his recently shaved facial hair will be back in full force. Besides, this sort of shoegaze-y psych-pop practically demands it, as Cicero dubs the band "beardy spacemen from outer space."

MATT PAIS IS THE METROMIX MUSIC AND MOVIES PRODUCER. MPAIS@TRIBUNE.COM

Tom Schraeder and His Ego

"Once Lace, Now Cotton" (Township Records) Spare and quietly

intense, this Chicago singer-songwriter's latest feels personal, like a secret shared between people who've known each other their whole lives. Maybe that's because the disc was compiled by fans, family and friends from Schraeder's three previous unofficially released records. As a result the nine-track "Once

Lace, Now Cotton" doesn't necessarily feel cohesive or even intentional. That doesn't matter much with songs as delicately sweet as "Don't Wake My Woman" or the spellbinding "Patbaby (An Ode to)," which sounds like Schraeder demonstrating his ability to quiet a noisy crowd with his voice and gentle melody alone. Even when putting a little shuffle into a slow dance like "Carry On," this isn't the kind of artist who's going to jump out and grab anyone out of their seats. People who appreciate the talents of a guy like Ray LaMontagne will be happy to sit and marvel. —MATT PAIS

Wall Street Continues to Prosper Because YOU Bailed Them Out. But Are YOU Getting Richer?

Author & Teacher
 Robert Kiyosaki

Even as the Economy Continues to Struggle, Much of Wall Street is MINTING MONEY...

- The New York Times

We can show you how to Unlock the Power of The Market and Plan for a Life of Financial Success

Are you boiling mad that Wall Street traders are using bail-out money - YOUR MONEY - to pile up huge profits - while Main Street suffers through the longest recession in decades?

I'm Robert Kiyosaki - the man who wrote the #1 bestseller on personal finance, Rich Dad Poor Dad.

DON'T GET MAD - GET EVEN!

Discover the rules the Wall Street pros play by - then use those rules yourself, to BEAT Wall Street at its own game. TAKE CHARGE and PROTECT your financial future!

WHAT WE SHOW YOU - COULD REBUILD YOUR BANK ACCOUNT

Most people leave their investing decisions to a broker or mutual fund manager. That's great - for the broker or the fund manager (they make money even when their choices lose you money)!

Come to a FREE Stock Success Workshop. My Rich Dad Education™ team will show you how to:

- Profit from Stock Without Owning It
- Control a Stock for a Fraction of Its Price
- Protect Your Portfolio Even if the Market Crashes Again
- Create Cash Flow when Stock Prices Are Bouncing Up & Down

COMING TO THE CHICAGO AREA
 ON JUNE 8-10

This will be an informative, energetic 90-minute session that will challenge "conventional" wisdom, shake up the status quo, and show you how to TAKE CONTROL of your money so you can weather this financial storm and even potentially profit from it!

LEVEL THE TRADING PLAYING FIELD - ATTEND A FREE WORKSHOP

Do you think our economy is rigged to favor the rich? You're right. IT IS! (I wrote about it in my latest best-seller Rich Dad's Conspiracy of the Rich).

But at our FREE Workshop, you can get the knowledge you need to level the playing field!

Rich Dad Education can show you how to be smarter about money and reap potential profits no matter which way the market moves!

FREE RICH DAD FLASH DRIVE

Yours FREE just for attending the workshop!

CHI-TUNES

What makes your live show great?

After a live show we are often told, "Even though there are only two of you, it doesn't feel like anything is missing," which we think is a good thing. We switch instruments like we change our underpants and we sing sweet, sweet harmonies—in tune too!

Describe your sound in five words or fewer.

Folk Pop Crescendo Uke Hug

Tell us something random about the band, and why that's significant.

Katie is Canadian, so we are extremely polite. ... A little "please, thank you and pardon" can go a long way in this world.

Whom would you want to work with, and with whom would you never work? Why?

Who we would want to work with: Ryan Adams, because he is one of the most prolific songwriters of our generation.

Katie & Pat

When: 8 p.m. Friday

Where: Silvie's Lounge, 1902 W. Irving Park Road

Tickets: $5 at the door

Who we would never want to work with: Ryan Adams, because we hear he can be mean, which scares us because we are nice.

If the band were a '90s sitcom character, who would it be and why?

Probably Mark Taylor (the youngest kid in the Taylor household) from the show "Home Improvement," because we don't get as much attention as we deserve.

The Futureheads

"The Chaos" (Nul/Dovecote)

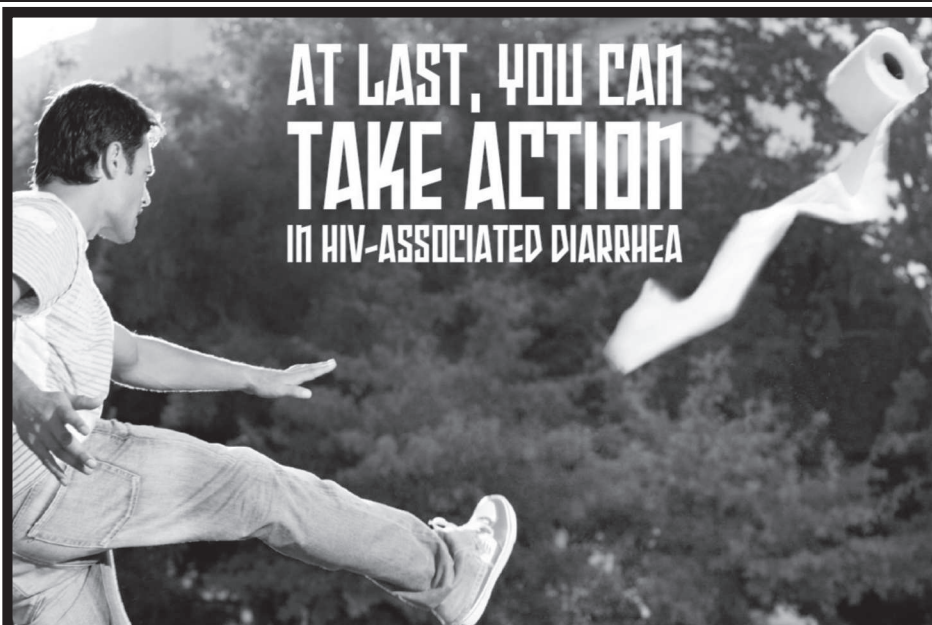

These jittery British rockers hit a cold streak when they followed their terrific self-titled debut with two albums ("News and Tributes," "This is Not the World") that failed to deliver the same ultra-tight urgency. So "The Chaos" comes as a bit of a relief, jumping off to a good start with a title track that, on top of chugging guitars that could power an engine, questions the practice of sitting around watching the world crumble. Throwaways such as "Sun Goes Down" and "Dart at the Map" represent how "The Chaos" isn't as exciting or distinctive from song to song as the Futureheads' debut, which felt like an achievement no matter what followed. Yet the Sunderland, England, group clearly isn't out of ideas or energy; "Stop the Noise" zigzags better than the band has in years, and "The Connector" jangles its way into your brain and leaves you humming it days later. The Futureheads are no longer the next great thing, but they've at last proved they're not just a flash in the pan. —MATT PAIS

In concert: June 12 at Lincoln Hall

'Burn Notice'

8 p.m. Thursday, USA

Last season, Michael Westen (Jeffrey Donovan) learned who ruined his spy career. After much prodding—and threats—from a shady character named Vaughn (Robert Wisdom), Michael finally goes to work for the organization that burned him. But under his own terms, which means he gets to moonlight helping average Joes such as "Mad Men's" Rich Sommer, who runs afoul of a biker gang.

VIDEO GAME*'Split/Second' $59.99 for PS3, XB360

A racing game made by Disney might not sound exciting, but "Split/Second" plays like a Michael Bay production. The game's premise is simple: You're a driver competing in a televised reality show where objects like billboards, cranes and even airplanes are rigged to explode. Those looking for a hard-core simulation might steer clear, but fans of arcade racers such as "Burnout" should go full speed ahead to "Split/Second." RYAN SMITH FOR REDEYE

ALBUM'Rokstarr' Taio Cruz

Like his countryman Jay Sean, British R&B singer Taio Cruz sure knows how to write a pop hit that goes down, down, down, down, down easy. Or should that be break, break—a break-break your heart? With "Rokstarr," Cruz lays out a string of radio-friendly, dance-floor-ready anthems, including the No. 1 single "Break Your Heart" and the equally infectious "Dirty Picture" duet with Ke$ha. "Rokstarr" all sounds interchangeable, but with so many potential hits that may prove to be a pretty smart strategy.

'Royal Pains'
9 p.m. Thursday,
USA

Don't expect Evan R. Lawson to be the carefree, goofy accountant he was in the first season of "Royal Pains."

When the USA network hit set in the Hamptons begins its second season Thursday, Evan faces the consequences of bankrupting the practice of his brother, Hank, an on-call doctor to the wealthy. According to Paulo Costanzo, who plays Evan, his character and Hank (Mark Feuerstein) sort of switch places in the new season.

"Suddenly Hank is way more goofy and Evan is way more deep," said Costanzo, who is awfully funny himself.

Costanzo credits the change in the brothers' demeanor with the appearance of their long-lost, con man dad, Eddie R. Lawson, who abandoned his sons when they were young and their mom died. Legendary TV actor Henry Winkler has signed on for the season to play Eddie.

"A lot of familial stuff comes out with Henry being part of it—like not funny [stuff]," Costanzo said, adding that Winkler is a great addition to the cast. "He's like this great, positive energy on the set.

"He's the least diva-ish man ever. He'll go and get the background actors like a coffee and they'll be like, 'What the hell?' And he'll be like, 'Yeah that's right,' and then sometimes his wings spread out from his back and then he has to hide them."

Costanzo teased that Evan may finally get some loving this season, how he demands caviar on set now and what he thinks the "R" stands for.

Lower Back Pain?

Are You or Someone You Know Suffering From Lower Back Pain?

Northwestern University is seeking volunteers who have lower back pain in order to determine where the pain is recognized in the brain. Participants will also be evaluated to determine why pain goes away for some people while it remains for others. This is a 12 month study consisting of 1 visit at the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago and 5 MRI scans at Northwestern Memorial Hospital's Olson Pavilion. All visits will take place in downtown Chicago.

- Eligible participants must:
- Be 18 years or older
 - Have a history of lower back pain which began 4-16 weeks ago with pain radiating into the buttocks or legs
 - Be able to undergo a MRI (no pacemakers, metallic implants, or spinal implants)

Please call 312-503-3181 for more information on how you can take part in this research study.

◀ RED CARPET REWIND

'SEX' & 'KILLERS'

Those "Sex and the City" women are having fashion moments all over the world. Their latest stop was Tokyo, where they stormed the red carpet for the "SATC 2" premiere Tuesday. Meanwhile, back in L.A., Ashton Kutcher, his wife, Demi Moore, and co-star Katherine Heigl were on hand Tuesday night for the "Killers" premiere. Not everyone was looking fashion fantastic, however. Age-appropriate attire eluded a few folks. EMILY ROSENBAUM MAKAS, REDEYE

Katherine Heigl

Heigl's short brown curls are too Shirley Temple and the ensemble feels rather girlish and not very sophisticated for a woman in her 30s.

Ashton Kutcher and Demi Moore

Why must Kutcher dress like an old man? That bowtie is so fusty on him. Moore, on the other hand, looks delicious in her sleek, teal gown by Lanvin.

Kristin Davis and Cynthia Nixon

Davis is wearing a ridiculously youthful bridesmaid dress with the world's most twee purse. All wrong for a woman over 40. Meanwhile, Nixon looks chic and glam in that saucy, strapless black dress and killer heels.

Sarah Jessica Parker

This Vivienne Westwood tiered confection is so Carrie Bradshaw and so delightful. Love the flounces, love the floral pattern, love the heels, but I am not crazy about the busy belt and necklace.

Dolly Parton
GETTY IMAGES

Rhinestone-studded Vogue?

It worked for Betty White, surely it could work for Dolly Parton too. A Facebook page has popped up seeking to put the larger-than-life country singer on the cover of French Vogue. The page creator wants her to be a guest editor and style the entire issue. Given some of her past outfit/wig choices, she likely would do an interesting job.

Cartoon cat-things are back!

Thunder. Thunder. Thunder. Thundercats! Ho! That's right kids (and kids at heart), Warner Bros. Animation is giving the '80s cartoon classic a reboot, according to wired.com. The studio is teaming up with a Japanese anime studio to add "realism and dynamic style." A more realistic Lion-o and Cheetara? That's something you definitely can say meow to.

'Idol' speculation

He might be something of an insurance risk (brain hemorrhage, hole in his heart, knocked in head by oversized props), but former Poison frontman Bret Michaels says he's totally interested in becoming the next "American Idol" judge. After the departure of cranky Brit Simon Cowell, Michaels told a Biloxi, Miss., crowd that he'd been asked to take the job, according to TV Guide. Fox had no comment.

He's hot, sticky sweet

Conan O'Brien has proved his dance prowess. CoCo's Wednesday show at New York's Radio City Music Hall featured a dance-off between America's redhead and another late-night favorite, Stephen Colbert, cnn.com reports. The pair shook it to "Pour Some Sugar on Me," and were joined by Jon Stewart after Colbert was sidelined with a "hamstring injury." Paul Rudd, Jon Krasinski and Vampire Weekend also appeared onstage.

He's good on the Web

Donald Glover would like to be your friendly neighborhood Spider-Man. The "Community" star has started a campaign on Twitter to get an audition for the 3-D Spider-Man reboot. A Facebook page also has appeared. "Some people are mistaken," Glover tweeted Monday. "I don't want to just be given the role. I want to be able to audition. I truly love Spider-Man."
